A false alarm brought out the engine FIRE.—A laise them orough out the eigenstand about half-past 10 o'cleck last-night, and eveated some little excitement among that irrepressible class, the firemen, who true to their calling, heard the cries from afar, and toted out their machines instantor. Fortunately it resulted in nothing were stone an evening's ramble, and the machines were soon restored to their resting places.

THE CATHEDRAL .- This ruined pile, venerable THE CATHEDRAL.—This ruined pile, venerable in appearance if not in years, has again received a few complimentary touches from the hands of the workmen. For a long time the body and basement of the church have been choked up with the debris that had fallen from the walls. This was not only an eye-sore, but it would have been necessary eventually to remove it in order to rebuild. By an arrangement with the city authorities, this dirt is now being removed from the building, and is used to fill the vacant lots; being mostly granite and stone, it is admirably adapted for the purpose, and w.ll make a tirm, solid earth. In over case where the owners denate the rubbish, old bricks, &c., to the city, it will be removed and used for the purposes stated above.

DEATH OF AN OLD MERCHANT.—The mournful

ligence of the death of Mr. CHABLES V. CHAM ERLAIN has been received in our city, and has oppressed with sorrow the hearts of many who knew him as possessing all the traits which dis inguish the good citizen, the excellent gen dleman, and the faithful friend. For thirty-fiv tleman, and the faithful friend. For thirty-five years he held a high mercantile position in Charleston, being connected successively with the very reputable firms of Parish, Wiloy & Co., Miller, Ripley & Co., Miller, Chamberlain & Peck, Chamberlain & Bancrott. The Miler & Co., and Chamberlain & Isases, and in that time his thorough business habits, with his genial, kind disposition, earned for him the esteem and respect of the entire community.

Broad street, East Bay and Vendue Range, have resumed their old air of activity. The tintinabulations of the auction bells once more are heard, and the crowd of buyers who eagerly attend these sales are as large and the bids made as frequently as before the late flood Groceries, furniture, crockery, and indeed articles of every description, new and second-hand, are disposed of with marvellous rapidity, and the auctioneers' cries are heard even above the rattling of the drays.

the drays as a frective vertical according to the bound of the pushed gives a promise that in a few weeks the old Bay will be thoroughly reconstructed. Broan street is yet in a muddy condition, and appeals strongly to the symp-thies of the civil authorities for a new coat of stones. The travel on this street is so great that the ruts formed are quite deep, and it is only in dry weather that it is crossable. Building has been almost suspended, few house are being erected, and it would seem as if the Fire Loan Bill was not patronized to any extent, or that the borrowers had, not yet commenced operations. that the borrowers had not yet commenced opera-cions. King street, however, still proserves its character as a fashionable promonade, and the number of ladies who frequent it are a gladsome sight to many eyes, particularly to the store-keep-ers, who know that they can be tempted, and will become purchasers if ouly to satisfy their curviosity. Other localities are as well patronized, and if really seems as if the old city has just awoke to the con-sciousnes of its being a new year, and had denned her brightest looks in consequence. that the borrowers had not yet con enced opera

After the Grand Jury had retired, on motion of the District Attorney, the case of 250 barrels of molasses, which had been assigned for this day, came up. John Phillips, Esq., stated that he had received information from parties in Caba which would throw more light upon the case, and requested a delay of two weeks, which was granted.

THE LATE FIRE IN KINGSTREE.-Later and more authentic reports have been received in regard to the destruction of the Kingstree Jail by fire tion of twenty-two of its inmates.

tion of twenty-two of its immates.

The jail had been visited the provious day by the Sheriff, Mr. S. P. Mathews, in company with the Lieutemant commanding that post, and everything had been found in complete order. A change of jailors was made on the 7th, Mr. James Barrineau, the old incumbent, having moved out, but had not yet currendered the keys to Mr. C. S. Beck, the new jailor. About eight o'clock that evening the fire was discovered by a negro, who reported it to Mr. Beck. Information was immediately sent Mr. berrideau; but on his arrival he stated that he could not surrender the keys without the anthority of the Sheriff, and could not take the responsibility of releasing the prisoners. At this time nothing was observed but a small smoke, and the delay did not seem dangerous.

of releasing the prisoners. At this time nothing was observed but a small smoke, and the delay did not seem dangerous.

On the arrival of the Sheriff he deemed it advisable to have the sanction of the Licutenant commanding, and that officer was sent for. He advised the speedy opening of the jail, and the first door was opened, but the smoke rushed out in such torrents that it was impossible to enter.

The Sheriff, the Licutenant, and Mr. McBride, went in, but the first two were forced to retire. Mr. McBride was more fortunate, and succeeded in opening the first door on the right and releasing a white man who had been confined for debt; but his humanity nearly cost him his life, as he was insensible for one and a half hours in consequence of having inhaled the smoke. The soldiers placed a ladder to a window, and passing up an ara, called to the negroes to break down the bars and escape; one of them took the arc, but exclaiming. It is too late! fell backwards in the smoke.

Fevery effort possible was unade to save the unfortunate freedmen, but the isolated nature of the building, and the absence of all facilities to effect their escape, or to quench the fiames, rendered it unavailing, and the absence of all facilities to effect their escape, or to quench the fiames, rendered it unavailing, and the twenty-two prisoners were suffected to death.

The extigin of the fire is completely unknown. It originated on the second story, apparently between the floor and celling. As the freedmen were not allowed the use of fire, the whole affair is wrapped in mystery. The white man who escaped is at present in the custody of the United States sol-diers, and as his trial will take place next week some facts may be elicited that are at present un-brown.

diers, and as his trial will take place next week some facts may be dicited that are at present unknown.

It has been a most unfortunate occurrence; and, happening at a time when the country is torn by intestine fouds, a construction may be placed upon it by the Radical party to answer their own ends. It is a source of great regret that by a strict adherence to the red tape principle so much valuable time was lost, and when the preliminaries were finally settled it was too late to do more than witness the destrustion of the building.

The jail was a fine four-story building, admirably adapted to the purpose, but totally unprovided with water, ladders, or other means of escape or prevention from such on occurrence. None of the negroes were coulised for serious crimes, except one for murder, in whose room it is supposed the fire originated. The white man who escaped wis of bad character, and, being confined for debt, had the range of the building now remains, and Law vestiges have been discovered of its unfortunate immains. The sad event has cast a gloom upon the community that will not be cradicated but by time.

The Truth about Dyspepsia. Whoever says that dyspepsia is incurable, tells a — that is to say, makes an egregious mistake. More than ten thousand aggravated cases have been cared by HOS-TETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, while the number hat have been prevented from coming to a head, by the same means, is incalculable. In Winter and early Spring, Nothing will do this so effectually, so rapidly, a quietly, so pleasantly as HONTETTER'S HITTERS. Ampoint propagation trims and balances the system, and clothes it, as it were, with defensive armor. Chronic dyspepsia, liver complaint, and fever and ague, are never known to attack those who are wise enough to invoke the aid of this great preventive.

No doubt Americans carry Plantation Bitters to Rome; but trying to impose upon a Society of Antiquarians in this way seems quito useless, and we do not appreciate the joke.
